

Abstract

To provide a new recording method and recording apparatus with respect to an optical recording medium, the recording method and recording apparatus being able to deal with a high density of an optical recording medium of recent years.

Recording of a recording track and a prepit is carried out by sequentially deflecting a single beam.